AL SMITH'S DAY AT CONVENTION

Two Tumultuous Demonstrations Mark Third Session.

CHAIRMAN MAKES THREAT

Came After He Vainly Sought to Restore Order Following the Second Explosion of Smith's Supporters. Many Nominating and Seconding Speeches Made During Rollcall of States—Incidents of the Session.

New York, June 27.—The third session of the Democratic national convention was featured by two demonstrations for Governor Al Smith.

Supporters of the New York governor succeeded in eclipsing the demonstration of 54 minutes which followed the placing in nomination of William G. McAdoo's name Wednesday afternoon. Following placing of Smith's name in nomination for the presidency by Franklin D. Roosevelt, the hall was alive with parading and cheering delegates and friends for an hour and 15 minutes.

The outburst was unprecedented in the history of great political gatherings. In solid mass the New York delegation leaped to its feet as Roosevelt concluded his speech placing Smith in nomination. From every corner of the garden—floor, ceiling and, it appeared, from every seat—there arose the deafening shriek of sirens, blare of horns and whistles, rattle of tick-tacks and, through it all, the faint music of the Smith bands.

The parade started with New York's delegation leading. Alaska, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Connecticut, Illinois, Minnesota, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Nevada, Vermont, North Dakota, Hawaii and Iowa were among the standards which followed.

The greatest crowd that ever packed Madison Square Garden was jammed into the structure, which was packed to the doors and thousands were standing in the aisles. What seemed to be thousands crashed through the doors without tickets and flooded the galleries. All of them were Smith boosters. The deafening demonstrations for Smith was not confined to the hall, but soon began to spread all about the garden. Windows were hoisted and bales of ticket tape and scraps of paper came fluttering down. It was like a snow-storm. Volunteer bands began parading.

Roosevelt Starts It.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for vice president in 1920, wound up his speech nominating Smith by saying: "I hope that when you reach the balloting you will remember the words of Abraham Lincoln and act in accordance, with malice toward none and with charity for all."

Roosevelt, a victim of infantile paralysis, had to be assisted to the speaker's rostrum. He referred to Governor Smith as "the man of manifest destiny."

Before this there was staged a demonstration by the McAdoo forces. It followed the speech of Governor Sweet of Colorado seconding McAdoo's nomination. Tammany delegates, trying to shut off the demonstration, began shouting at Sweet to go on with his speech. "Take off your hood, we know you," Smith roared, shouting at the McAdoo marchers. Order was restored within a few minutes.

Senator Thomas F. Bayard of Delaware, in a brief speech, placed in nomination former United States Senator Saulsbury of Delaware.

Louis Stevenson of Illinois placed in nomination former Secretary of Agriculture and Treasury David Houston.

Ten Placed in Nomination.

William Ayres placed in nomination Governor Jonathan Davis of Kansas, and the entire Kansas delegation, each delegate resplendent in real Kansas sunflowers, rose and cheered and waved their sunflowers. Howard Bruce placed Governor Ritchie of Maryland in nomination.

Many brief seconding speeches were made in behalf of the several candidates. Another long demonstration by Smith supporters drew from Chairman Walsh the threat to entertain a motion to take the convention to some other city if order were not maintained in the hall. Walsh's threat came after he had vainly sought order following the outbreak of the Smith paraders and the hall again was filled with a din of clattering, clanging, screeching instruments of noise.

"We can get order,"

OSCAR UNDERWOOD

Alabama Senator's Name Placed in Nomination.

Order was obtained and the roll call was resumed.

End of the third session found ten candidates placed in formal nomination for the presidency, as follows: William G. McAdoo, California; Governor Alfred E. Smith, New York; Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas; Senator Samuel M. Ralston, Indiana; former Senator Willard Saulsbury, Delaware; Governor Jonathan Davis, Kansas; Governor Ritchie, Maryland; former Secretary Houston, Senator Ferris, Michigan; Senator Underwood, Alabama.

Must Die in Chair.

Columbus, June 27.—Charles Thomas, colored, convicted slayer of Policeman Troy Stewart, was sentenced to die in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary on Oct. 16. A motion for a new trial was denied. Thomas took the sentence calmly. He told the judge he had not had a fair trial.

Threw Himself Under Train.

Lebanon, O., June 27.—In sight of scores of persons, Edwidge Chamberlain, 65, threw himself under a train and was decapitated. Friends said he had been despondent.

BRYAN PLANK IN PLATFORM

Referendum on War Sought by the Commoner.

FURTHER TAX CUT PROMISED

Other Planks Call For Revision of Rate-Making Sections of Transportation, Abolition of Rail Labor Board and Agricultural Relief—Latter Plank Suggests Number of Reforms.

New York, June 27.—According to schedule, the platform will be presented to the Democratic national convention today.

The subcommittee that drafted the declaration of principles reported last night to the full committee, which at once began to thresh out the two most troublesome planks, the klan and league of nations. Although alternative planks, representing the extreme and moderate views on both league and klan have been drafted, the adoption of compromise declarations on both issues by the full committee was virtually assured.

The alternative league and klan planks were drafted by Homer Cummings of Connecticut, chairman of the resolutions committee, and Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, secretary. The klan plank which meets with almost unanimous favor in the committee is a vigorous denunciation of all secret organizations which seek to impair racial equality and religious freedom, but does not mention the klan by name. It was agreed that it would be political folly to single out the klan for specific denunciation, thus "reading out of the party" all members of the order.

Three members of the committee, however, had been instructed to fight to the last for a plank denouncing the klan by name. To satisfy them an alternative plank along this line was drafted for submission to the full committee.

Agitation for a wet plank fizzled out quickly. This plank, as adopted, calls for strict law enforcement, and goes further in administering a stinging rebuke to the Republican administration for failure to properly enforce the dry law. It was adopted with little opposition.

Bryan Presents Plank.

A new plank, insofar as Democratic platforms are concerned, provides for a referendum on war. This was written in by William J. Bryan. It would also amend the constitution, which gives the president the right to declare war with the consent of congress, and place such power entirely in the hands of the people.

The league plank reaffirms Woodrow Wilson's belief in the league as the most effective instrument to prevent war, and advocates a referendum, independent of any political election, upon the question of America's entrance into the league and world court. The plank would safeguard this country's interests through reservations on the league covenant, upholding the Monroe doctrine and leaving the United States free from entanglement in foreign wars.

Senator Walsh of Massachusetts sponsored a plank which was adopted providing for government regulation of the coal industry and other necessities of life, when controlled by monopoly.

The agricultural relief plank, modeled along the lines suggested by Bernard M. Baruch, combines a number of reforms designed to increase the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar. It promises to reopen foreign markets to the farmers, to adjust the tariff to suit the cost of living and agricultural production, to lower freight rates, to create a co-operative marketing system and restore prosperity.

Other planks follow:

Taxes—A further reduction in taxes is pledged, to be brought about by strict economy and efficiency and honesty in government.

Railroads—Revision of the Esch-Cummings transportation act, particularly the rate-making section, and abolition of the railroad labor board, is promised.

Merchant Marine—The Republican shipping policy is denounced and the upbuilding of the American merchant marine and the provision of government aid when private enterprise fails is recommended.

Corrupt Practices—Indictment of the Republican administration for graft, corruption and favoritism is coupled with a pledge of honest government and recommendations for legislation to insure clean elections.

ED. H. MOORE

Democratic National Committeeman From Ohio.

Disarmament—A recommendation for a sweeping reduction in armament on land and sea is qualified by a declaration for an adequate army and navy until international agreements have been effected.

Welfare—The child labor amendment is endorsed and legislation to protect women in industry is recommended.

Philippines—Immediate independence of the Philippines is pledged.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Kills Divorced Wife and Sells.

Coshocton, O., June 27.—Lewis McClain, 47, shot and killed his divorced wife, Ruth Mae McClain, as she lay sleeping with their 3-year-old boy, then sent a bullet crashing through his own brain. He fired eight bullets into the woman's body, then apparently reloaded his automatic pistol and killed himself. The youngster was uninjured. The McClains were divorced three days ago.

Completing Highway.

Pomeroy, O., June 27.—The Ebersbach Construction company started to pour the last two miles of the Meigs county end of the Pomeroy-Athens concrete road. Six miles of the road are under construction in Athens county and when completed provides a hard road from Columbus to the Ohio river.

Spanish War Veterans Elect.

Middletown, O., June 27.—Spanish-American War Veterans of Ohio chose Clarence Brinkle of Dayton as their commander at the close of their convention here. Delaware was selected as the 1925 meeting place of the organization. F. C. Washington of Columbus was chosen department marshal.

Three Boys Drowned.

Cleveland, June 27.—Three boys were drowned in ponds and swollen creeks here. Harry Sotoski dived into a clay hole and was drowned. Howard Pennock, 13, was drowned in a creek near Bedford. Theodore Gudovsky, 7, was swept to his death while wading.

Witnesses Reported Missing.

McArthur, O., June 27.—It is reported that several witnesses who turned state's evidence in the case against Don Doss, charged at Hamden, this county, with making liquor, have left the county. Doss, himself, who was free on bond, is also reported missing.

Burglar Slain.

Toledo, June 27.—An unidentified colored burglar was shot and killed as he ran from a rooming house here by Joseph Harkowski. The burglar grappled with John Dudek, a roomer, and stabbed him three times. None of the wounds is serious.

No Summer Camp.

Athens, O., June 27.—Plans for a summer camp for Athens county farm boys and girls were abandoned because of the resignation of Farm Agent Ralph Pavey, who was in charge of the project. His successor has not been named.

Deed Due to Remorse.

Cincinnati, June 27.—Remorse over cruelty to his sweetheart was the motive assigned by Donald Davis, 23, who shot himself through the heart with a rifle. In a letter to his sister he expressed a hope she would not blame the girl.

Worker Killed.

Sandusky, O., June 27.—Eugene J. Jessberger died within a few minutes at a stone quarry, near here, when he was caught in a machinery belt.

NOMINATION NOT LIKELY THIS WEEK

Leaders See Ten Ballots by Saturday Night.

SUNDAY TO BE DAY OF TRADING

Ohio's Votes to Be Split Four Ways When the Big Break Comes, According to Reports—Underwood, Ralston, Glass and John Davis to Benefit, It Is Said—Taggart on Ralston's Chances.

New York, June 27.—Leaders are of the opinion that the convention program should result in eight or ten ballots on the Democratic presidential candidate by Saturday night.

They say the managers of the candidates will have all day Sunday to study the meaning of these first ballots and to begin the business of really naming the man. By Sunday the delegates who are tradeable will be ready to see themselves traded.

Thomas Taggart, Indiana leader, declared that Senator Ralston's candidacy has left no sore spots anywhere. If he has his way the leaders will eliminate each other by the very bitterness of their animosities, and then Ralston will be brought out, without having made an enemy, to receive the nomination. Taggart has been working especially in the middle west and Ralston's friends say he has a number of votes in that section pledged for delivery whenever he calls them. His tactics, according to present plans, are not to begin to call for votes until the present leading candidates are out of the way. In Taggart's opinion this may be beyond the tenth ballot.

According to reports, Ohio's 48 votes will be split in four directions when the big break in the Democratic national convention comes. The big break is due when, and if, the McAdoo-Smith deadlock reaches its death throes.

At this juncture, some state will then lead the way out by pushing a popular dark horse forward, thus enabling delegations with "second choices" to begin the spectacular process of trading votes.

Which state will make this break is purely a matter of speculation. It is doubtful, however, that it will be Ohio. The four big factors of the convention, Brennan, Taggart, Moore and Smith, have probably reached some sort of an understanding in this respect, but are not disclosing it at this time.

When the Ohio votes, after polling steadily and consistently throughout the McAdoo-Smith deadlock, and probably for a few ballots beyond that, for James M. Cox, begin to desert the former Ohio governor, they will go, according to reports, to John W. Davis, Samuel Ralston, Carter Glass and Oscar Underwood. The proportion of votes can not be judged at this time, but, on the first few split ballots, Underwood is likely to get more than the rest.

FIGHTING FOREST FIRES

Federal Service Men Report Several Under Control.

San Francisco, June 27.—Reports from forest service men say that the fire in the Grant national forest was checked by back firing. Dynamite was used to aid the back fires. Blazes in Blumas county, north of Portola, and in the Lake Almanor district, also are reported under control, as were fires near Big Sierra, in Santa Cruz county, and in the Sierras in Madera county. The most serious fire still burning is in Santa Clara county, where 100,000 acres of grazing land are reported to have been burned over by flames which have spread into the foothills toward Lick observatory. The fire in Shasta county, near Redding, has burned over 6,000 acres of brush and passed all control lines. A serious fire in the Charleston range is reported from Las Vegas, Nevada.

Charge Against Cashier.

St. Clairsville, O., June 27.—Fred Bailey, 54, cashier of the Commercial Savings bank, Bethesda, O., which closed its doors, is held on a charge of embezzling $57,000 from the bank. Bailey is said to have confessed to State Examiner Wolfe of Columbus to having invested the bank's funds in stock of the Nutron Radio corporation, now defunct.

Two Women Hurt.

Logan, O., June 27.—Mrs. John Van Meter and her daughter, Mrs. Clyde McNabb of Athens, were injured in an auto wreck near this city.

WOMAN WIELDS GAVEL

Miss May Kennedy Makes Short Address to the Convention.

New York, June 27.—The third session of the Democratic national convention was started by a woman. Chairman Walsh, after calling the convention to order and introducing William W. Porter of the Christian Science church to deliver the invocation, turned the gavel over to Miss May Kennedy of the Bronx, elected as the first vice chairman of a national convention. Standing coolly at the front of the speaker's rostrum, Miss Kennedy made a short address—a woman's keynote.

"The women of this nation are anxiously awaiting the result of the deliberations of this convention," said Miss Kennedy. "I am sure that when we adjourn we shall have proven to them, both by our candidates and our platform, that the Democratic party has not and will not fail in the commitment of its trust."

Miss Kennedy was the first woman in history to preside at a national convention.

Donahay Not in Klan Scrap.

Columbus, June 27.—Governor Donahay denied the report that he had mixed into the klan fight now raging in the Democratic national convention, as a Cleveland writer had accused him of doing through a letter to an Ohio delegate.

MELLON DISMISSED AS A WITNESS

Futile Attempts to Question Him at Means Trial.

New York, June 27.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon was dismissed as a witness after futile attempts to question him had been made by Colonel Thomas Felder, attorney for Gaston B. Means. Mellon was called to testify for the defense of Means and Elmer Jarnecke, who are being tried for conspiracy to remove liquor from bonded warehouses. Hiram C. Todd, assistant attorney general, objected to questions asked of Mellon and most of the objections were sustained.

Mellon said he had interests in the Overholt Distilling company at Pittsburgh, but that the business was liquidated now. He said that C. E. Hubbard, Trenton (N. J.) steel magnate, had visited him and told of paying Means and Jarnecke $15,000 to remove liquor from the Sam Thompson distillery at Brownsville, Pa. The liquor never reached Hubbard and the money was not returned, he said.

Mellon said he knew nothing of 2,350 cases of liquor found in the Overholt distillery and of four liquor permits said to have been found in the Mellon National bank in Pittsburgh, until the seate Daugherty investigation was started. He said he then learned the permits were found in the Overholt distillery and the permits were forged.

Tribute Money.
During the administration of Thomas Jefferson, the Barbary states gave much trouble, not only to the United States, but to the European powers, because of the pirates that infested the waters of this part of the coast of north Africa. The European powers had been accustomed to pay them tribute in order that their vessels might not be molested. The American government had entered upon the same practice. Cargoes of presents were sent now and again to appease the greed of these pirates. The demands became so exorbitant that our government at last sent a small fleet to the Mediterranean, which taught the pirates that blackmailing must cease. This is the only instance in which the United States had paid tribute to any country.

Origin of Photography
Photography has made such rapid strides in 50 years that it is almost incredible that one of the first and earliest processes in the development of photography was the daguerreotype. Invented by L. M. Daguerre of Paris and first publicly used in 1839. The lights and shadows of a landscape or figure were fixed on a metallic plate by the action of actinic light rays.

"Catsup" From the East
Catsup is a word derived from the name of an East Indian pickle. The term was first applied to the boiled speed juice from salted mushrooms, but is now freely used for various sauces which consist of the pulp—boiled, strained and seasoned—of tomatoes, green walnuts, etc.

CREAM TO SELL
The minute you start using a De Laval you get something to sell for cash—cream; and in addition you get skim-milk to grow into another crop of calves, pigs and chickens. Two sources of profit, and a steady cash income every day.

This is the surest, safest and most profitable way of farming—and the De Laval Separator makes it possible. It is the original separator, skims cleaner, lasts longer, turns easier than any other. There are over 2,500,000 De Laval Separators in use the world over—about as many as all the rest put together. The De Laval has always led in every important separator improvement.

Barrere & Nickerson,

We deem it a pleasure to wait upon those who appreciate our never failing supply of pure choice meats.

Put the Cala Ham on to cook in enough cold water to cover the meat, bring to boil, then simmer gently until tender—about 25 minutes to the pound. When done, remove from water, and peel off the skin. Stud the soft fat with cloves, sprinkle with a thick layer of brown sugar, and bake 45 minutes, basting occasionally.

Tribute Money.

During the administration of Thomas Jefferson, the Barbary states gave much trouble, not only to the United States, but to the European powers, because of the pirates that infested the waters of this part of the coast of north Africa. The European powers had been accustomed to pay them tribute in order that their vessels might not be molested. The American government had entered upon the same practice. Cargoes of presents were sent now and again to appease the greed of these pirates. The demands became so exorbitant that our government at last sent a small fleet to the Mediterranean, which taught the pirates that blackmailing must cease. This is the only instance in which the United States had paid tribute to any country.

Origin of Photography

Photography has made such rapid strides in 50 years that it is almost incredible that one of the first and earliest processes in the development of photography was the daguerreotype, invented by L. M. Daguerre of Paris and first publicly used in 1839. The lights and shadows of a landscape or figure were fixed on a metallic plate by the action of actinic light rays.

Close Link Between Civilization and "Ads"

"The entire disappearance of advertising and selling would ultimately result in turning these United States back to the social and economic condition of England in the time of Richard the Lion-Hearted. . . ."

All advertisers and all critics of advertising want to read Ernest Elmo Calkins' defense of advertising in the Century. In the Century Winifred Kirkland, as Smith Jones in 1874, described a marvelous world from which all traces of advertising had mysteriously disappeared fifty years ago. In her whimsical article she presented a trenchant indictment of advertising.

Mr. Calkins picks up the thread of her story and presents a sound defense of advertising, proving conclusively that our very civilization rests upon advertising and selling. Writing thirty years after Smith Jones' death, Mr. Calkins describes the gradual retrogression and final breakdown of our civilization after the effects of advertising had entirely disappeared.

For a time the public enjoyed the benefits of advertising without the drawbacks. The flow of goods to and from the stores was like some mighty machine which, once started, ran for a while with its own momentum even after the power had been withdrawn.

Students of business and other trained observers were nevertheless aware that the machine was running down. Every now and then a retail store went out of business and no new one took its place.

The same thing that was going on in full view of the public, as it were, in the affairs of the retail stores, was happening behind the scenes to the manufacturers; but, though less evident to the spectators, it was more serious and farther reaching in its effects. The manufacturers confronted the same problem as the retailers—the difficulty of doing business in the face of shrinking markets and rising costs.

The shrinking markets were the cause of the rising costs. The fewer the people who bought an article the more it cost to make that article and the more it cost to sell it. The higher prices in turn still further reduced the number of purchasers, and thus necessities were fast becoming luxuries, while luxuries were becoming extinct.

Forced to Revise Opinion

Rarely have the holders of a well-established theory or belief shown the readiness to abandon it that is displayed by our anthropologists as a result of the discovery of a few human bones out in California. That man was a late comer on this continent long has passed, if not exactly proved, at least as so probable as to amount to certainty. Now that opinion must be revised—it must be, that is, if further investigation does not demonstrate that the bones are less old than their finder deduced from the age of the stratum in which they were found.

And evidently it is not thought by those with a right to judge that a mistake has been made.

As consolation for having been convicted of making a hasty judgment, the archeologists are saying, in effect, "Well, now we can understand what we couldn't before—why the men hitherto taken to have been the first Americans were so far advanced in civilization."

After all, to have lived in the last of the geologic ages before the very last one doesn't take man so very far back in world history, and if these new oldest inhabitants of California have skulls very much like our own, as is reported, their claim to priority is not very good, for they must have had a lot of very human ancestors.—New York Times.

Man's Face Changing

According to Sir Arthur Keith, noted British scientist, changes in man are now taking place more rapidly than at any other period in his history, says the Pathfinder. The time is not yet ripe, however, for the production of "supermen," he says.

He is convinced that certain characteristics appearing in a large proportion of modern humans are of recent origin. The most marked changes, he finds, are in the bone under the gums in which the teeth are rooted—the most plastic bone in the body.

In 80 per cent of the people this bone, instead of spearing outward as in prehistoric races, tends to grow in a vertical direction, producing a narrow, high-arched palate. This leaves insufficient room for the normal number of teeth and such as appear are crowded, the wisdom teeth often failing to come through. These changes in the mouth give undue prominence to the nose and chin and tend to make faces long and narrow.

Waiting for Sunshine

Albert H. Losche, county clerk, not only prides himself on the help in his office, but even says that his janitors have a sense of humor hard to beat.

Recently one of the deputy clerks printed the following on one of the smoke-besmeared windows in the clerk's office, "Please wash me." The next day the following inscription was scrawled under it in faltering, weary strokes, "Wait till the sun shines, Nellie."—Indianapolis News.

Lucky Diamond Buyer

J. Bergman, a diamond buyer in the famous district near Kimberley, South Africa, has come into possession of a diamond weighing 410½ carats, which, curiously enough, was found by a poor Kameelfontein. The prospector did not at first realize its value, but it is estimated at $150,000 easily. It is one of the brown variety.

Lost in the Fog.

Children lost in London fogs have furnished the basis for many a story. Temporary separation from home and friends is, however, merely one of the minor tragedies shrouded in the murky, health statisticians have found. Recently it was discovered that the death rate from bronchitis and pneumonia increased sharply during the week following extra heavy fogs. Large quantities of unburnt coal from chimneys of factories and private residences, held in the atmosphere by the fog, are blamed for lowering the individual resistance to the disease germs, and so boosting the death rate.

The Bissextile Year.

The bissextile year, which is commonly known as leap year, has 366 days or one more day than the ordinary year. The origin of the name leap year is unknown, but it probably arose from the fact that any date in a leap year after the added day of February 29 "leaps" over the day of the week on which it would fall in ordinary years. For example: If March 1 falls on Monday in one year, it will fall on Tuesday in the next, if that is an ordinary year of 365 days, but on Wednesday if it is leap year.

Frank McDowell, confessed slayer of four other members of his family, who was convicted at Clearwater, La., of the murder of his mother and recommended to the mercy of the court, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

HERRICK REFRIGERATORS

The Big Difference In Refrigerators

The main object of any refrigerator, of course, is the preservation of foods. The refrigerator that will keep foods in perfect condition longest is naturally the refrigerator you want—provided it doesn't increase your ice bills.

The Herrick answers those requirements with facts—not claims. And it does even more. It actually decreases your ice bills while giving you more effective food preservation.

And why? Simply because the Herrick is far more than an ice box—far more than a cold storage place. It is built on the scientifically demonstrated principle that more than merely cold air is necessary to keep foods in good condition for any great length of time.

Perhaps the biggest essentials to scientifically correct refrigeration are—

- No. 1. Circulation of cold dry air.
- No. 2. Effective insulation.
- No. 3. Air-tight construction.

That the Herrick has these necessary essentials is a demonstrated fact.

Many proofs of the truth are visible even to the least informed purchaser. Others are hidden within the walls of the refrigerator, but nevertheless there, performing their functions so important to good health and economy.

PRIMARY THEORY

Less Than Fifteen Per Cent of People Went to Polls.

Probably popular sentiment in Ohio is not only for the retention of the primary law but for the liberalization of it to put control of nominations still more thoroughly into the people's hands. The voters like to feel that they have this power, that the bosses cannot give them a ticket to vote for. It is undoubtedly a popular theory but how does it work out in practice?

At the most recent primary in Ohio less than 15 per cent of the electors took the trouble to go to the polls. That was a worse record than usual but not much worse. The percentage of voters participating in primary elections in Ohio has always been small and seems to grow progressively smaller. If the people really wish to retain and liberalize the primary system, they would do well to show their approval of it by taking advantage of it. A very important primary will take place in August. A full vote at that time would be interpreted as a popular indorsement of the primary system but a meager vote would be regarded as another argument for its curtailment or abolishment. — Ohio State Journal.

"ONWARD CHRISTIAN SOLDIER"

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, addressing the more than three thousand members of the Christian Endeavor Union of Ohio, in this city, sounded a true, rational note of moral patriotism. It was a splendid address, one of the kind much needed in these days when added apostles of pacifism are contributing to the destruction of the national spirit.

Secretary Wilbur proclaimed the theme of "Onward, Christian Soldiers." For, the ultra-pacifists to the contrary, a man may be at the same time a Christian and a soldier. The secretary of the navy is a Christian. Cromwell, Washington and Lincoln were Christians and soldiers.

The best preparedness, the secretary told his Christian hearers, is in strength. He reminded them that our cherished liberties were blood-bought by men whose souls were devoted to righteousness, by men who thought of the generations which were to follow them—men who chose to give their lives for liberty of thought and person rather than to live and doom their children's children to live as slaves or subjects to a foreign power. And, he proclaimed, we might in certain circumstances, have the right to yield territory, but we have no right to surrender the liberties of the inhabitants of that territory to protect our own. And this incontrovertible statement; "So long as men are selfish enough to begin war we must be prepared for war and willing to make war to resist such aggression."

No proclamations of churches or parliaments can change this situation. No public decree, no amount of legislation can make society secure in the absence of adequate police provision. Cities and nations must be prepared to resist and combat by force depredations, wrongs and aggressions.

Christian was speaking to Christian at the meeting of the Endeavorers. It would be well for the nation if the public could have more of such speeches. The foolish pacifists are unceasing in their efforts to force acceptance of impossible schemes for the abolishment of war, forgetting that human nature has not been regenerated. The secretary of the navy calls attention to facts as they exist. He is for the soldier, the Christian soldier; for war righteous war. And so should we all be.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

RECEPTION TO THE BIG CHIEF

Red Men From Many Cities Honor Great Sachem L. E. Miller.

Most Interesting Program of Oratory and Music Delighted the 350 Guests
Congo Tribe Proud to be Hunting Grounds of Head of Order.

A reception was given Thursday evening by Congo Tribe, No. 51, I. O. R. M., at their wigwam in Memorial hall, in honor of L. E. Miller, who had been raised to Great Sachem of Ohio last May, the highest honors that anyone can assume in this order. There were about 350 present. Visitors came from Chillicothe, Waverly, Greenfield, Adelphi, Gibsonville, Rockbridge, Springfield and other parts of the state.

A very interesting program was given. Brother Rockford Wiggins, sachem of Congo tribe, introduced E. P. Smith, P. G. S., of Waverly, as chairman of the meeting, who made a very interesting talk on Redmanship, and introduced the following speakers; Mayor Fitzpatrick, who made the address of welcome and turned over the key of our city to the chairman for the evening, but warned him to return it to Mr. Miller, as such valuable property was not allowed to go out of the city. Mr. Miller greatly appreciated the confidence placed in him when he received the key at the end of the program.

Response was given by Brother Charles Metzger, of Logan tribe, No. 9, of Chillicothe, which was interesting. Brother Otto Allenberger, of Fleetfoot tribe, No. 139, Canton, spoke on "Redmanship." Brother Fred McNeel, of Seneca tribe, No. 17, of Portsmouth, on "Our Boys" and Past Grand Sachem Dr. E. Emery, of Greenfield, and also Brother Albert Daniel, mayor of Greenfield, who gave his talk in the dark, as the storm put out the lights just as he was introduced. His talk was very humorous and much appreciated. A number of other speakers responded. Regrets were read from E. C. Wilcox, of O. F. O. Bofo tribe, No. 98, of Dayton, and Joe Desha Smith, of Running Elk tribe, No. 64, of Steubenville, who were unable to be present.

We were delightfully entertained thru the evening with music by Miss Mary Pickens, Mrs. James P. Moffitt and Master Carl Palm and Leib's orchestra of Miami, No. 207, of Springfield, Ohio.

Our beloved Great Sachem L. E. Miller, gave a very interesting talk on "Redmanship" and urged every man to become a Red Man, one of the oldest fraternal and patriotic orders in the United States. It is strictly American, the only one that holds a charter sent by the U. S. senate. He also brought out all of the beauties of Redmanship, freedom, friendship and charity the grand principles of the order. We have no orphans home, but we have a home for every orphan by the ties of fraternalism, each a big brother to them.

Congo Tribe feels highly honored to be the hunting grounds of the head of this noble and grand order. Brother L. E. Miller will do his work well and the trails will not be too long or the nights too dark in the fulfillment of his duty. At the end of the meeting all joined in singing "America", and after this a delightful lunch was served.

STOCK RETURNS

Poultry and Sheep in One Section of Ohio Leads All.

How much will livestock on the average Ohio farm return from a dollar's worth of feed?

It varies from county to county, and depends partly on the year, according to figures compiled by the rural economics department at the Ohio State university. For five Huron county farms for the six years from 1917-22, livestock returned $1.49 on a dollar's worth of feed.

On five Medina county farms during 1922 the livestock returned $1.80 on a dollar's worth of feed. For the same year on five Greene county farms, the return was $1.86.

During 1922 and 1923 the extension economists cooperated with 45 Morgan and Noble county sheep and livestock farms in keeping records. The receipts per dollar's worth of feed this past year came to $1.51 for all classes of livestock.

Tho these were sheep farms with a return of $1.93 on every dollar's worth of feed given to the sheep, poultry returned most, $2.14. Stock and young cattle returned $1.17, hogs returned $2.25 and cows and dairy products returned $1.15.

When considering the livestock products used by the farm family, however, the receipts on a dollar's worth of feed line up this way for the 45 farms: Poultry, $2.68; sheep, $1.93; cows, $1.79; hogs, $1.41; young stock, $1.19.

"Initiative."—
"The world bestows its big prizes, both in money and honors, but one thing. And that is initiative. What is initiative? I'll tell you: It is doing the right thing without being told. But next to doing the thing without being told is to do it when you are told once. That is to say, carry the Message to Garcia; those who carry a message get high honors but their pay is not always in proportion.

Next, there are those who never do a thing until they are told twice; such get no honors and small pay.

Next, there are those who do the right thing only when necessity kicks them from behind and these get indifference instead of honors and a pit tance for pay. This kind spends most of its time polishing a bench with a hard-luck story.

Then lower down in the scale than this, we have the fellow who will not do the right thing even when some one goes along to show him and stays to see that he does it. To which class do you belong?"—Elbert Hubbard.

"The world bestows its big prizes, both in money and honors, but one thing. And that is initiative. What is initiative? I'll tell you: It is doing the right thing without being told. But next to doing the thing without being told is to do it when you are told once. That is to say, carry the Message to Garcia; those who carry a message get high honors but their pay is not always in proportion.

Next, there are those who never do a thing until they are told twice; such get no honors and small pay.

Next, there are those who do the right thing only when necessity kicks them from behind and these get indifference instead of honors and a pittance for pay. This kind spends most of its time polishing a bench with a hard-luck story.

Then lower down in the scale than this, we have the fellow who will not do the right thing even when some one goes along to show him and stays to see that he does it. To which class do you belong?"—Elbert Hubbard.

AMUSEMENTS

An unusually clever Paramount production, "The Silent Partner" with Leatrice Joy, Owen Moore and Robert Edeson a very powerful drama, was given a highly successful presentation at the Met theater last night. The picture is delightful in every respect.

Miss Joy, as Lisa Coburn, finds that her husband in speculating in the stock market and tells him that as long as he wins she will stick by him, but when he loses he loses her—this, not because she does not love him, but rather, to save him from himself, because the young wife has seen a sad example in a friend, a successful young man, who gave up a good position to speculate, only to meet with disaster.

Coburn is successful and Lisa takes advantage of this by making him give her much money for expensive gowns, pearls and the like. But instead of spending money, Lisa deposits it in a bank. Thus when the crash comes she is prepared.

All goes well until, thru accident, Coburn comes upon all the evidence of his wife's evident duplicity in her writing desk. He will not listen to her explanations and leaves—only to be reunited with his wife when both confess their mutual shortcomings. Playing in support of the principals is a cast of prominent screen artists which includes Robert Schable, Patterson Dial, E. H. Calvert, Maude Wayne, Bess Flowers, Lura Anson, Bert Woodruff and Robert Grey. Charles Maigne directed the picture while Walter Griffin did the photography.

JOHN HARMAN

Native of Pickaway County Died in Leavenworth, Kansas.

Mrs. Nelson Dumm, of Walnut street, has received word of the death of her uncle, John Harman, of Lawrence, Kansas, who died Tuesday, June 24, at the Leavenworth, Kansas, hospital.

The deceased was born in this county, but left here for Kansas, forty years ago. He was 79 years of age and is survived by seven children.

Of his immediate family there are living two brothers; T. D. Harman, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and Charles Harman, of Trumbull county, Ohio, and a half-brother, George Harman, of Amanda.

A BUSINESS CHANGE.

The O. L. Cartright Motor company, of Circleville, with a branch agency at the corner of Second and Walnut streets, has purchased the O. J. Hayes garage, West Second street and took possession Wednesday.

The parts, supplies and Hudson cars will be moved Saturday into the new location. Hudson and Essex sales will be maintained in the front of the first floor where B. B. Myers is at present located with the Oakland agency. Mr. Myers has not yet determined upon a new place. Storage will be available in the rear and service can be given on the second floor.

The Home Furniture Exchange, now on West Second street, will move into the room vacated by the Cartright concern. Mr. Cartright stated Wednesday that his new location will enable him to offer a more complete Hudson service than heretofore, as the former cramped quarters did not offer sufficient space.

John Kellhofer will have complete charge of the new garage.—Scioto Gazette.

SOME DON'TS

Application of Golden Rule Will Promote Domestic Harmony.

Sometime ago I published an article on the rules of the game. In the latter part of which I referred to love and said it also had its rules as everything else.

I have been in receipt of many letters asking me for the rules of the game of love, some of which emphasized the point that there are no rules that "All is fair in Love and War."

A city clerk, Michael J. Cfuisse, head of the marriage license bureau, which issues about 35,000 marriage licenses a year, has gotten out a little pamphlet which answers this question for me.

He has a list of don'ts for wives and an equivalent list of don'ts for husbands. Here they are. His list of don'ts for wives is as follows:

"Don't nag.

"Don't let your house or yourself get untidy.

"Don't gossip about the neighbors' troubles.

"Don't trump hubby's 'ace in a bridge game.

"Don't make catty remarks if he snores. Be sympathetic.

"Don't get millinery mania or a clothes complex.

"Don't get peeved if he shows he likes a pretty face in your presence.

"Don't cabaret unless he is with you.

"Don't encourage relatives to park at your house.

"Don't grouch if he is late for dinner."

The don'ts for husbands are as follows:

"Don't be a tightwad.

"Don't be a killjoy.

"Don't wait till she's dead to send her flowers.

"Don't take boarders, male or female.

"Don't sneer at her dog if she has one.

"Don't think she's a dumbbell. Treat her human.

"Don't forget she works as hard as you—and gets less.

"Don't make a fuss over other women unless she is present.

"Don't treat her rough. She may fool you.

"Don't love her less or yourself more."

These may be superficial, but they are rules none the less and those who observe them may find them beneficial.

Perhaps they are as good as any I might give.

The one simple rule that is sufficient not only for love but for anything else is to do as you would be done by.

It is justice and not charity that most people want. It is to be treated justly and honestly that especially every woman wants.

We cannot do this unless we accustom ourselves to take another's point of view and put ourselves in another's place.

The great enemy of love is egotism, thinking too much of ourselves and not enough of others.

If we accustom ourselves to think of others there is little difficulty in keeping the rules of love; the difficulties we are in will solve themselves.—By Dr. Frank Crane in Ohio State Journal.

MAKE HENS LAY

College Poultryman Mentions Ventilation, Hopper Space and Culling.

Hens on a good many Ohio farms are not laying eggs at the rate they ought to for this time of year.

In sending this word to 1100 poultry men who are keeping flock records in cooperation with the Ohio State university, R. E. Cray, extension poultry specialist, offers these suggestions to increase production:

"A good many folks have not opened up the ventilators on their houses. If you haven't ventilators to open, take out every window you can to make that house cooler.

"Next, provide plenty of mash hopper space. Only three per cent of the houses has enough.

"Give four pounds of milk-moistened mash every noon to each 100 birds; fresh water, twice daily.

"Keep birds free from lice and houses free from mites.

"Provide succulent green feed—not old, dried-up grass.

"Cull the flock when production drops below 50 per cent. To keep production up to 50 per cent the average flock needs to be culled at this rate:

June, 6 per cent; July, 9 per cent; August, 11 per cent; September, 15 per cent; October, 16 per cent."

HAIL STORM

Second Fall of Frozen Water—Little Damage Was Done.

Another hailstorm struck this city Thursday evening shortly after nine o'clock. The hail was heavy but did very little damage, some flowers were cut by the sharp piece of ice.

This is the second fall of congealed water in a week. The hail that fell earlier in the week last Monday afternoon was peculiar, in that it was not hal at all, but was frozen chunks of crystal ice, the first that has fallen in this vicinity in the memory of old residents. Dr. W. H. Wilderson, says he saw a similar storm in the state of Missouri some years ago. The hail was rectangular in form and some pieces were two inches long and nearly an inch thick, just like the ice that fell here recently.

MARCUS TOOTLE.

Friday morning at 10 o'clock funeral services for Marcus Tootle, whose death occurred at his home in Commercial Point, Ohio, from tuberculosis, will be held at the Commercial Point Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. William Ziegler, officiating. Burial in Green Lawn cemetery at Frankfort. Mr. Tootle was 31 years of age and is survived by his mother, Mrs. Clara Fletcher.

Sometime ago I published an article on the rules of the game. In the latter part of which I referred to love and said it also had its rules as everything else.

I have been in receipt of many letters asking me for the rules of the game of love, some of which emphasized the point that there are no rules that "All is fair in Love and War."

A city clerk, Michael J. Cfuise, head of the marriage license bureau, which issues about 35,000 marriage licenses a year, has gotten out a little pamphlet which answers this question for me.

He has a list of don'ts for wives and an equivalent list of don'ts for husbands. Here they are. His list of don'ts for wives is as follows:

"Don't nag.

"Don't let your house or yourself get untidy.

"Don't gossip about the neighbors' troubles.

"Don't trump hubby's ace in a bridge game.

"Don't make catty remarks if he snores. Be sympathetic.

"Don't get millinery mania or a clothes complex.

"Don't get peeved if he shows he likes a pretty face in your presence.

"Don't cabaret unless he is with you.

"Don't encourage relatives to park at your house.

"Don't grouch if he is late for dinner."

The don'ts for husbands are as follows:

"Don't be a tightwad.

"Don't be a killjoy.

"Don't wait till she's dead to send her flowers.

"Don't take boarders, male or female.

"Don't sneer at her dog if she has one.

"Don't think she's a dumbbell. Treat her human.

"Don't forget she works as hard as you—and gets less.

"Don't make a fuss over other women unless she is present.

"Don't treat her rough. She may fool you.

"Don't love her less or yourself more."

These may be superficial, but they are rules none the less and those who observe them may find them beneficial.

Perhaps they are as good as any I might give.

The one simple rule that is sufficient not only for love but for anything else is to do as you would be done by.

It is justice and not charity that most people want. It is to be treated justly and honestly that especially every woman wants.

We cannot do this unless we accustom ourselves to take another's point of view and put ourselves in another's place.

The great enemy of love is egotism, thinking too much of ourselves and not enough of others.

If we accustom ourselves to think of others there is little difficulty in keeping the rules of love; the difficulties we are in will solve themselves.—By Dr. Frank Crane in Ohio State Journal.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

* Mrs. Sarah A. Markel, 1139 Elmwood avenue, Grandview Heights, Columbus, will celebrate the eightieth anniversary of her birth with a party at her home Saturday afternoon, June 28, at 3 o'clock. Those present will include her six children and their families, her brother, Mr. Solomon D. Riegel and wife of this city; her sisters, Mrs. Mary E. Lutz of this city; Mrs. Emma C. Rush, of Laurelville; her brother-in-law and wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Shupe and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Leannah Armstrong, all of Laurelville; also her nephew, Mr. John Riegel Rush.

* Both Arms Broken IN FALL FROM SHED.
Thursday morning about 9 o'clock Henry Taylor McCrady, son of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor McCrady, while assisting George Smith paint a garage roof near Fox, fell a distance of about ten feet and had small bones broken in both arms; in the right arm at the wrist and in the left above the elbow. He was taken to the office of Dr. Lloyd Jones for treatment.

* Made Fishing Ground

MAKE HENS LAY

College Poultryman Mentions Ventilation, Hopper Space and Culling.

Hens on a good many Ohio farms are not laying eggs at the rate they ought to for this time of year.

In sending this word to 1100 poultry men who are keeping flock records in cooperation with the Ohio State university, R. E. Cray, extension poultry specialist, offers these suggestions to increase production:

"A good many folks have not opened up the ventilators on their houses. If you haven't ventilators to open, take out every window you can to make that house cooler.

"Next, provide plenty of mash hopper space. Only three per cent of the houses has enough.

"Give four pounds of milk-moistened mash every noon to each 100 birds; fresh water, twice daily.

"Keep birds free from lice and houses free from mites.

"Provide succulent green feed—not old, dried-up grass.

"Cull the flock when production drops below 50 per cent. To keep production up to 50 per cent the average flock needs to be culled at this rate:

"June, 6 per cent; July, 9 per cent; August, 11 per cent; September, 15 per cent; October, 16 per cent."

HAIL STORM

Second Fall of Frozen Water—Little Damage Was Done.

Another hailstorm struck this city Thursday evening shortly after nine o'clock. The hail was heavy but did very little damage, some flowers were cut by the sharp piece of ice.

This is the second fall of congealed water in a week. The hail that fell earlier in the week last Monday afternoon was peculiar, in that it was not hal at all, but was frozen chunks of crystal ice, the first that has fallen in this vicinity in the memory of old residents. Dr. W. H. Wilderson, says he saw a similar storm in the state of Missouri some years ago. The hail was rectangular in form and some pieces were two inches long and nearly an inch thick, just like the ice that fell here recently.

MARCUS TOOTLE.

Friday morning at 10 o'clock funeral services for Marcus Tootle, whose death occurred at his home in Commercial Point, Ohio, from tuberculosis, will be held at the Commercial Point Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. William Ziegler, officiating. Burial in Green Lawn cemetery at Frankfort. Mr. Tootle was 31 years of age and is survived by his mother, Mrs. Clara Fletcher.

Useful Plant

The cabbage-like heart of the sotol, a plant native to New Mexico, was once roasted or boiled and eaten by the natives and the trunks were utilized to make a distilled drink called "sotol."

Spring lamb again Saturday. BECK BROS.

proceeded to enlighten his wife. "Now

That rooster is worth $200. He's a

One of Gulliver's Islands.

Laputa was an imaginary aerial island, mentioned in Gulliver's Travels. It contained 10,000 acres and was inhabited by a set of dreamy philosophers, who occupied themselves with music and mathematics. Owing to their habitual absent-mindedness,
these sages employed attendants,
known as "flappers," to rouse them
from their reveries by flapping them
on the mouth and ears with blown bladders, whenever their attention was to be withdrawn from "high things"
and bestowed upon mundane affairs.

Turns Bed to Cure Insomnia.

Insomnia victims have found strange
cures, such as counting imaginary
sheep passing through a gate, but an
Inn keeper in Europe, when she discovers one of her guests has not slept well, turns his bed so it will face in another direction. She maintains from her long experience in catering to the comfort of travelers that some are
"East and Westers," while others are
"North and Southerners," or "West and Easters," when it comes to sleeping.

A city gentleman was taken all over an extensive and lavishly equipped farm. He saw blooded stock of many kinds and was particularly impressed by the prices that had been paid for some of these specimens. Upon rejoining the guests at the mansion he proceeded to enlighten his wife. "Now take that rooster yonder, for instance.
That rooster is worth $200. He's a genuine Southdown."

One of Gulliver's Islands.

Laputa was an imaginary aerial
island, mentioned in Gulliver's Travels. It contained 10,000 acres and was inhabited by a set of dreamy philosophers, who occupied themselves with music and mathematics. Owing to their habitual absent-mindedness,
these sages employed attendants,
known as "flappers," to rouse them
from their reveries by flapping them
on the mouth and ears with blown bladders, whenever their attention was
to be withdrawn from "high things"
and bestowed upon mundane affairs.

Turns Bed to Cure Insomnia.

Insomnia victims have found strange
cures, such as counting imaginary
sheep passing through a gate, but an inn keeper in Europe, when she discovers one of her guests has not slept
well, turns his bed so it will face in another direction. She maintains from her long experience in catering to the comfort of travelers that some are
"East and Westers," while others are
"North and Southerners," or "West and Easters," when it comes to sleeping.

Woods in Ball Bats

Some of the most popular ball bats used by professional ball players contain several kinds of wood and some a bit of rubber. Willow makes up the body of the bat usually, but to make the handle springy cane is included for splicing, and a piece of rubber sometimes is used to give the handle the additional spring needed for some hitters.

FICKARDT'S ROUP AND CHOLERA DROPS

On May 7, 1924, I called on Elmer Doner, Ashville R. F. D. No. 1, and he told me the following:

I bought four hundred (400) chicks of a hatchery and while there I bought some tablets to prevent disease or cure them if they were sick. Very soon the chicks began to die. I tried the tablets that I had obtained at the hatchery. I then bought other tablets liquids and powders, all nationally advertised remedies, but none of them did any good and my chicks kept on dying until I had lost 250.

A friend of mine told me of Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops, at that time I had ten sick chicks in a pen separated from the well stock and I really considered them as good as dead.

I began to use Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops with all my chicks, both well and sick. Two of the sick ones died, the other eight recovered and I have not lost any others since I began to use Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops over a month ago.

I would have probably thought that the disease had run its course if it had not been for the fact that these that were sick recovered, but seeing the sick ones get well has convinced me that Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops cured them.

FORTUNE-TELLING OLD "ART"

Delving Into the Future by the Aid of Tea-Leaves Survival of Ancient Superstition.

To tell a fortune by tea-leaves, you turn your cup upside down in the saucer and whirl it around three times after drinking your tea. Turn the cup again and examine the leaf-fragments clinging to bottom and sides. Then you can read your future in what the leaves look like. Of course you can't count on it being true, but you can get some harmless fun out of it. There were many other old superstitions. In Egypt, a bowl or cup was filled with water and a boy gazed into it until he became hypnotized and "saw things." The magician interpreted what the boy thought he saw. The strolling magicians of North Africa perform the same trick today by means of a drop of ink in a boy's hand. When Joseph sent his messengers to find his silver cup in Benjamin's sack, he instructed them to say: "Is not this my lord's cup in which my lord drinketh and wherein he divineth?" Hence the mystic qualities of the cup. Ceromancy consisted of dropping melted wax into water and divining by the forms the wax assumed in cooling. It is a very old art, but tea was only introduced into Europe in the Seventeenth century; yet the primitive mind still subsisting in man at once seized upon the tea-grounds as a means of foretelling the future, as that same mind had seized upon the melted wax thousands of years before.

GLOVE BY NO MEANS MODERN

Its Use Can Be Traced With Unerring Accuracy Back to the Most Remote Times.

The origin of the glove dates back to remote antiquity. There is reason to believe that the ancient Persians wore them, since it is mentioned in the "Cyropoedia" of Xenophon that on one occasion Cyrus went without his gloves. It is also known that some kind of protective coverings for the hands were used by the Romans in certain kinds of manual labor and in battle. The English scholar, Dawkins, discovered on a bone dating from prehistoric days a design which he claimed to be a picture of a glove. On the monuments of the Pharaohs in Egypt there are represented among the tributes paid by subjected people gloves of the shape of the long suede worn by modern women.

Homer speaks of the gloves worn by the ancient Greeks in garden toil, and, though a crude mitten may be meant, it is also thought that the ancients knew the fingered glove. Gloves of the ancients corresponded in color with their foot coverings. The sandals and bootlike stockings were generally white or pink. Mittens are among the dress accessories found with mummies of priestesses dating from the 21st dynasty of Egypt. They were of the same material as the upper garment.

Tibetan Wool Market.

At Patseo in the wilds of Tibet is held the wool market to which come annually the merchants from the rich plains of India. The Tibetans barter the fleeces of their flocks for the rice, tea and cotton with which the pack mules of the traders are laden. The wool of the Tibetan sheep is in much demand, but as the animals cannot live below 10,000 feet, prospective purchasers are obliged to climb the rocky steep into the very heart of the Himalayas. The market opens about the middle of July when herdsmen and merchants pitch their respective camps in a high valley 13,000 feet above sea-level. The sheep are shorn on the spot and emerge looking incredibly slim and forlorn, from a mass of wool which lies on the ground like a buffalo robe. When the market is made, the fleeces are wound about with ropes and pressed into as small a compass as possible. They are then loaded upon the pack-animals, and masters and mules turn their backs upon the inhospitable hills, well pleased to begin the descent toward their native plains.

Birds' Nests Nourishing Food.

On Tawi-Tawi Island of the Sulu Archipelago live colonies of the little swallowlike swifts that make the edible birds' nests, so beloved of the Chinese. These birds have some sort of glands in their jaws that secrete a thick glue which they stick up against the wall as a swallow does mud, and the nest when completed looks like white glass, but is very light.

They are sold to the traders for their weight in Mexican silver, and it takes 17 nests to balance a dollar. They are supposed to be extremely nourishing and the broth is in demand for invalids.

After the "first chop" nests are collected the birds begin at once the construction of the second ones, but these are worth only about one-half the first chop. When these are knocked down the birds resort to moss with only enough glue to hold it together. These are allowed to remain and in them they raise their broods.

Presence of Cream a Surprise.

A family found a good deal of cream on a bottle of milk which had been standing overnight.

When the milkman called in the morning the maid held it up to the light and said, "Look here, I have never seen anything like this before on your milk."

The man looked at it for a moment, scratched his head, and replied, "Well, I don't know what's the matter, but you can throw it out and I'll give you a fresh bottle in its place."

New Thing in Lenses.

It is well known that pure quartz glass possesses the property of transmitting, very abundantly, the so-called chemical rays of light, by means of which photographic effects are produced, and it has often been attempted to make photographic lenses of quartz alone. Unfortunately, quartz also possesses the property of double refraction, so that, unless the opening of the lenses is very narrow, good images are not produced. A French optician, E. Morin, is reported to have succeeded in making small photographic lenses of quartz glass in which some of the difficulties have been avoided and the lenses show 'great rapidity of action.'

Pretty Legend

A legend clings to the forest of Fontainebleau, near Paris, where a hunter many centuries ago would have died of thirst had not his dog Bleau run round and round until he succeeded in digging a spring. Later the hunter married, and his wife called the bubbling spring Fontaine Bleau, after the dog that had saved her husband's life

To tell a fortune by tea-leaves, you turn your cup upside down in the saucer and whirl it around three times after drinking your tea. Turn the cup again and examine the leaf-fragments clinging to bottom and sides. Then you can read your future in what the leaves look like. Of course you can't count on it being true, but you can get some harmless fun out of it. There were many other old superstitions. In Egypt, a bowl or cup was filled with water and a boy gazed into it until he became hypnotized and "saw things." The magician interpreted what the boy thought he saw. The strolling magicians of North Africa perform the same trick today by means of a drop of ink in a boy's hand. When Joseph sent his messengers to find his silver cup in Benjamin's sack, he instructed them to say: "Is not this my lord's cup in which my lord drinketh and wherein he divineth?" Hence the mystic qualities of the cup. Ceromancy consisted of dropping melted wax into water and divining by the forms the wax assumed in cooling. It is a very old art, but tea was only introduced into Europe in the Seventeenth century; yet the primitive mind still subsisting in man at once seized upon the tea-grounds as a means of foretelling the future, as that same mind had seized upon the melted wax thousands of years before.

GLOVE BY NO MEANS MODERN

Its Use Can Be Traced With Unerring Accuracy Back to the Most Remote Times.

The origin of the glove dates back to remote antiquity. There is reason to believe that the ancient Persians wore them, since it is mentioned in the "Cyropoedia" of Xenophon that on one occasion Cyrus went without his gloves. It is also known that some kind of protective coverings for the hands were used by the Romans in certain kinds of manual labor and in battle. The English scholar, Dawkins, discovered on a bone dating from prehistoric days a design which he claimed to be a picture of a glove. On the monuments of the Pharaohs in Egypt there are represented among the tributes paid by subjected people gloves of the shape of the long suede worn by modern women.

Homer speaks of the gloves worn by the ancient Greeks in garden toil, and, though a crude mitten may be meant, it is also thought that the ancients knew the fingered glove. Gloves of the ancients corresponded in color with their foot coverings. The sandals and bootlike stockings were generally white or pink. Mittens are among the dress accessories found with mummies of priestesses dating from the 21st dynasty of Egypt. They were of the same material as the upper garment.

Tibetan Wool Market.

At Patseo in the wilds of Tibet is held the wool market to which come annually the merchants from the rich plains of India. The Tibetans barter the fleeces of their flocks for the rice, tea and cotton with which the pack mules of the traders are laden. The wool of the Tibetan sheep is in much demand, but as the animals cannot live below 10,000 feet, prospective purchasers are obliged to climb the rocky steep into the very heart of the Himalayas. The market opens about the middle of July when herdsmen and merchants pitch their respective camps in a high valley 13,000 feet above sea-level. The sheep are shorn on the spot and emerge looking incredibly slim and forlorn, from a mass of wool which lies on the ground like a buffalo robe. When the market is made, the fleeces are wound about with ropes and pressed into as small a compass as possible. They are then loaded upon the pack-animals, and masters and mules turn their backs upon the inhospitable hills, well pleased to begin the descent toward their native plains.

Birds' Nests Nourishing Food.

On Tawi-Tawi island of the Sulu archipelago live colonies of the little swallowlike swifts that make the edible birds' nests, so beloved of the Chinese. These birds have some sort of glands in their jaws that secrete a thick glue which they stick up against the wall as a swallow does mud, and the nest when completed looks like white glass, but is very light.

They are sold to the traders for their weight in Mexican silver, and it takes 17 nests to balance a dollar. They are supposed to be extremely nourishing and the broth is in demand for invalids.

After the "first chop" nests are collected the birds begin at once the construction of the second ones, but these are worth only about one-half the first chop. When these are knocked down the birds resort to moss with only enough glue to hold it together. These are allowed to remain and in them they raise their broods.

Presence of Cream a Surprise.

A family found a good deal of cream on a bottle of milk which had been standing overnight.

When the milkman called in the morning the maid held it up to the light and said, "Look here, I have never seen anything like this before on your milk."

The man looked at it for a moment, scratched his head, and replied, "Well, I don't know what's the matter, but you can throw it out and I'll give you a fresh bottle in its place."

First Tract. Situated in Circleville township, Pickaway county, Ohio, being the southeast quarter of Section 29, Township 11, Range 21, containing 126 acres of land, more or less; this farm will be subdivided into four equal tracts the two northern tracts will be offered separately and then as a whole and sold in the manner that will bring the most money; located on the east side of the Kingston pike, and known as the Johnson farm.

Second Tract. Situated in Pickaway township, Pickaway county, and being a part of Section number 4, Township 10, Range 21, containing 187 acres, more or less; this farm will be offered in two tracts and sold in the manner that will produce the most money; located on south of Cemetery Road and along Scippo creek, and known as the Barr farm.

These lands are in the heart of the Pickaway Plains and all is good, warm and early soil and suitable for all kinds of farming. The first tract is within one-half mile of the limits and the second tract about three miles from Circleville.

Terms of sale will be made known on day of sale.

For particulars inquire of GEORGE STEELY, Sole Surviving Executor of the Estate of Nelson Hitler, Deceased. Charles H. May, Attorney, Circleville, Ohio. 10juned3w3.

New Thing in Lenses.

It is well known that pure quartz glass possesses the property of transmitting, very abundantly, the so-called chemical rays of light, by means of which photographic effects are produced, and it has often been attempted to make photographic lenses of quartz alone. Unfortunately, quartz also possesses the property of double refraction, so that, unless the opening of the lenses is very narrow, good images are not produced. A French optician, E. Morin, is reported to have succeeded in making small photographic lenses of quartz glass in which some of the difficulties have been avoided and the lenses show 'great rapidity of action.

Pretty Legend

A legend clings to the forest of Fontainebleau, near Paris, where a hunter many centuries ago would have died of thirst had not his dog Bleu run round and round until he succeeded in digging a spring. Later the hunter married, and his wife called the bubbling spring Fontaine Bleu, after the dog that had saved her husband's life.

"SNOWMOBILE" ATTRACTED MUCH ATTENTION

Here is a "Snowmobile," which attracted quite a bit of attention after it made a 200-mile trip through snow and storms, to get to the winter sports carnival held in Quebec, Canada.

CAR THIEF DOING LARGE BUSINESS

Motorist of Today Needs Device That Will Puzzle Skilled Mechanic.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

The automobile thief is doing a big business of late, and the police records show a large increase over that of last year. How, then, can the car manufacturer bring out a more or less standardized anti-theft contrivance that will really prevent a car from being stolen, and what would be the characteristics of this perfect lock?

The motorist of today needs badly a contrivance that can be locked or unlocked from the car seat by the driver, or else something that will automatically remind the driver of its existence before he starts the engine again.

Something to Confuse.

Something which merely prevents the engine from being started in the ordinary way is of absolutely no use. For example, if the self-starter is disconnected by the car owner, there would be nothing to stop two or three men from starting the engine by pushing the car with the gears in mesh. Why not give the thief constructive, rather than destructive work? Let him build up instead of tearing down. Destruction is much more simple than construction, and it can be done with most any tool. Any prisoner, given time and a saw, can eventually break jail, therefore, if the device will break a connection of some sort, perhaps something that would temporarily prevent the engine transmitting power to the differential, it would be more likely to confuse the thief than a mere locking device, which could easily be destroyed, and allow the car to be driven away.

It isn't the fact of getting the better of a thief with only a few minutes' time in which to work out his getaway. It's got to be something that will puzzle the skilled mechanical thief, who has no longer time in which to accomplish his work.

Lock Gear in Neutral.

The majority of old-time motorists' suggestions seem to turn towards some device which will lock the gear in neutral, and, by the way, there are already numerous devices of this kind in existence, many of them operated with a Yale key. The keyhole is in reach of the driver, but in such a position as to make it awkward for the thief who tries to file off the device. But here again is a destructive rather than a constructive job, which brings us to where we started.

You, as a car owner, should take extra precautions if you go to unusual risks, in the way of leaving your car unattended. A few simple mechanical changes would help complicate the thief's job and, in many instances, save your car.

Come on, you tinkering mechanics—set your ingenious brains to work on this most needed of automobile problems. There is big money for the man who succeeds in this venture.

Spark Lever Intended to Control Ignition Timer

The spark lever is for controlling the ignition timer or breaker which causes quick impulses of high-tension current to pass through insulated wires to the sparkplugs. When the spark lever is retarded the timer is in a position where the contact points separate and send current to the plugs just at or a little past beginning of power stroke of each piston. When spark lever is advanced the timer moves to a corresponding position, creating impulses before each piston reaches beginning of power stroke, when the engine develops more power and speed.

Piston Ring Guide

A steel ring just the diameter of the cylinder bore of one end and tapered off at the other until it is just large enough to slip over the piston ring makes it easy to get a piston back in the cylinder, obviating, as it does, catching of the rings.

Clean With Kerosene

Soap and water sometimes will not remove the grease spots and other marks on the running boards or the floor boards. The best way to clean these is with a rag saturated with kerosene.

Folks who come to the sales-room ready to buy, but oblivious to the meaning of f. o. b.

A driver whose rear-view mirror reveals the motorcycle officer on the trail.

Flashing Lighthouses to Protect Motorists

Light signals have protected travel on land and sea for many years. Colored flashing signals will be installed this spring on the main national highways at crossroads, sharp curves and railroad crossings. The motorist of tomorrow will be guided by traffic signals that will safeguard danger points and minimize accidents.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES

No motor vehicle should be parked at the entrances to hotels, theaters, office buildings, large stores, and other buildings to which there is a great amount of coming and going.

The importance of efficient spark plugs cannot be estimated, says a well-known automobile engineer. Never wait until they miss fire and always buy the best quality obtainable.

Scale in the radiator can be overcome by mixing a little glycerin with the cooling water. The glycerin should be used in proportions of half a pint to each five gallons of water.

A slow leak in the tire valve plunger can be sometimes checked by applying a drop of oil in the valve stem. The oil partly dissolves the rubber, and causes it to anneal itself to an airtight joint.

Water which comes from a chalky district should not be used in the water circulation system because this results in deposits in the pipe and radiator. Distilled or well filtered rain water should be used.

Care should be exercised when dry cells are used for ignition purposes to keep them in a dry place, for any dampness will cause them to short circuit, and when this takes place it will be hard work starting the engine.

It is often difficult to start by hand the small screws such as are used in the magneto, speedometer, etc. An easy way around this difficulty is to hold the screws between the legs of a pair of cullipers, a drawing compass or even in the slot of an ordinary steel pen. The screw is then driven home by the small screwdriver. The same method may be used in replacing small nuts located inaccessibly.
